the Extraordinary Achievements of*

Michael Mahoney '92

Secretary of the Year

You stepped up to the plate 15 years ago — and have been hitting class columns out of the park ever since.

Your team spirit was evident as an undergrad when you played soccer and lacrosse, managed the women's hockey team, and worked as sports editor for The Dartmouth. You worked at Dartmouth's Sports Information Office before and after graduation, then advanced to Northwestern's media relations office before scoring the top spot in UPenn's sports communications. Along the way you've shared the Big Green spirit with a roster of graduates, including your grandfather, father, and brother. You reported on alumni news for Dartmouth Alumni Magazine. You volunteer with the Alumni Fund and your class reunion committee and are a friend of the College's basketball, lacrosse, and soccer programs.

Throughout, you've been your class' biggest fan. Never content to sit on the sidelines, you gather news at barbeques, birthdays, golf courses, and mini-reunions across the country. You're always on the lookout for ways to bring the class together, whether building momentum for reunions or working the crowd to discover news of class members who have been out of touch.

Keeping your class connected has always been your goal. You've worked hard to hit every deadline with lively columns that highlight the passions, challenges, and accomplishments of your classmates.

Michael Mahoney, we thank you for being such a key player for your class, the College, and Dartmouth Alumni Magazine.
